WELCOME TO FOUR CORNERS 2010

Four Corners 2010 is a groundbreaking participatory arts project which continues to push boundaries. Now in its 5th year, it is Culture Liverpool's major city wide participation programme which seeks to examine the quality of life in Liverpool's communities.

Through an artistic process incorporating creative writing, visual arts and many other creative mediums, Four Corners helps communities to reflect on significant changes occurring across the city. By working alongside Neighbourhood Management Services, Cultural Organisations and this year's new partner Liverpool's Primary Care Trust, it will address key health priorities in the year of Health and Wellbeing, whilst challenging the impact of the arts as a form of communication and expression.

A note from Jen Heyes Creative Producer 2010

This year, using the theme of Health and Wellbeing, we will be exploring healthy neighbourhoods, healthy relationships, healthy minds and healthy bodies.

The material for the exhibition is created within the neighbourhoods of Liverpool by people from all walks of life and carries with it a collective message. Some of the participants have never done anything like this before and for them it is an opportunity to try new ways of expression and communication. For all of us, Four Corners is an uncertain journey; we never know quite where we will end up, but there is no denying that the work produced will be beautiful, unique and thought provoking.

This is an exhilarating and challenging project to be part of. It brings so many voices, ideas, styles, organisations and people together. The site specific nature of the exhibition works perfectly at the Bluecoat, which offers a blank canvas for us to create the perfect setting to house the work.

Come along and join in.
